IRN set to gather Agri Trading Houses to discuss Emerging Markets this June in Geneva

IRN, global summit organiser is proud to bring you the 'Risks in Agri Trading: Emerging Markets Summit 2014' taking place 18-19 June in Geneva, Switzerland.

Geneva, Switzerland (PRWEB UK) 22 February 2014 -- IRN, global summit organiser is pleased to bring you the Risks in Agri Trading: Emerging Markets 2014Summit taking place in Geneva on 18-19 June.

After hosting three successful editions of the Annual Soft Commodities Trading Summit in Geneva, and launching the inaugural Risks in Agriculture: Emerging Markets in Accra last November; IRN is now back to Geneva with a comprehensive platform designed for General managers, Traders, Treasurers, Supply chain specialists, Trade finance managers, Risk management experts, Operations managers and also Logisticians.

With booming economies, plenty of natural resources and a fantastic margin for growth, emerging markets, such as; Africa, Latin America, South-East Asia, Middle-East are a hub for opportunities within the agri business especially for products such as coffee, cocoa, sugar cane, rubber, grains - the products grown in these areas.

The Senior Experts in the industry will gather to discuss geopolitical risk and legal framework when operating in emerging markets, as well as economic and supply chain risks. From currency and credit risks, to country risk and physical risk. Expert speakers from the major trading companies will consist of; Olam, Cargill, Ecom Trading, Louis Dreyfus, Export Trading Group – and many others – whom will address those challenges by sharing with the audience their experience and best practices to keep those risks to a minimum.

With plenty of room for networking, two workshops, on-stage discussions around essential topics such as credit risk and physical risk management, and specific case studies to shed some light on key emerging regions, the Summit is set to be a very interactive and informative platform.
